“ Dear Mom, I miss you so much my heart aches all the time, More and more I think of you and more and more I think of Larry and Carolyn, only I guess because I wish they were here to comfort me , my heart is torn apart not being able to see you. There are so many nights of have visions of you and dad, sometimes Larry and Carolyn are there, I say to myself that you are showing me you guys are together and that is comforting and hurting at the same time cause we all should be together, My kids and wife Angela just don't understand the sorrow of losing all of you year after year. Seems like in normal families they are their brother and sisters to comfort them when their parents die, but we had our bother die and then my sister died, You Know Char mom, to tough, to involved in herself and Jim to care about me after all I m the black sheep of the family, she never did anything wrong , Anyway guess Ill hear from her around Christmas, the polite gesture for visiting, I always loved Charlotte and always will not matter what angle she come from she is my sister, Mom if she could only ask God to forgive her and accept him as her savior things would be different. I haven't been to church is a while mom, but I do listen t Dr, David Jeremiah on TV and Joseph Prince , You and I have talked about them before, good teachers of the word, Jeremiah is very practical and Prince is very intelligent and deep into the Word of GOD Love you momma, miss you beyond words, spending most days depressed and lonely. I had a visions the other day mom, everyone was outside like watching a parade and I was outside down by the bowling alley , Angela was a little ways away and people were looking up into the sky, very gray cloudy day windy and in the sky lighting was rising upward not downward like normal, but it would circle around these images like halo grams of people folding and unfolding I told Angela as she grabbed my hand and asked what was it, I told her is was the bodies of the resurrected beings of the earth, just like puffs of smoke each one would unfold as if nodding on their way up into heaven, It was beautiful and scary at the same time, all the parade watcher were screaming and yelling what is it? All I could do was hang on to Angela had and run towards the images, because I wanted to go too, I knew from that dream that he is coming soon and will take the dead first and then the living , My eyes are bad now mom so forgive me but Ill see you sson

“ September 11, 2015 I remember talking to you on the phone this day and watching the tragedy of the towers being hit, fear ran through my body what was happening to our country, would we all be safe from what was taking place. You said oh Phil do you really think its an attack on our country, and then the second plane hit the tower, Any we both agreed we were being attacked, how terrible this was and what was going to be next, I told you war and one that would not end. In your loving and caring way you asked where was my kids and Angela, I said at school and work, where they are today this very moment and honestly an attack of war would be better today then not having you here with me because that has attacked my soul and I cant forget you, not that I am trying to forget just to move on but I cant, I'm frozen in time, Please knock on my door one more time, knock on my heart a little less, it hurts to not have you here. You see when you left, you left me behind alone, all of our family Larry, Carolyn, Dad and You are not here and I am, its not fair. I have no one to hug and say it hurts having so many passed away before me, no brother to laugh with, no sister who cares about me and would come and comfort me, no Dad to say what to do next or to ask for help making ends meet. And you were my friend and partner to go fishing with and laugh with about anything. At the least you would send a card and gift for my birthday or Anthony's birthday that just past.

Well just wanted to vent (talk) get things off my chest, kind of stupid huh ma, typing on a funeral site for you. Who spend their day looking at funeral sites and reading this stuff anyway. Just wanted to shed a few tears and get it off my chest, Love you no matter what. See you soon, you see mom we are all dying someday and with you gone I'm dying inside everyday a little faster then the day before. I have diabetes and other health issues that is moving me closer to you each day, so it won't be long, then my son will be writing about me I hope, except I'm going to hang around here for him only as long as I can and then hang around him after I'm gone, Wish you were here.

“ My dear mother, its been a couple of weeks and i miss you so, i wait each day for that knock on the door where u would be standing to see how i'm doing, not very well mom , i wish we could go fishing or for a drive to the A W for a hot dog and root beer and chat. I love you so much, i can only imagine you and Jesus walking in his garden discussing which flowers to set at the table for dinner or you, dad, larry and carloyn walking in the cool of the day, hugging and praying for us down here, I hope that Jesus assure you that he is looking out for Charlotte and I. Its 2:44 am on Monday and yes you are on my mind, I miss you something awful and yet even now i hear Jesus speaking saying Peace I leave with you, my peace peace not as the world knows, but my peace that gives you rest, goodnight mom I truely love you, give Larry Carolyn hugs for me cause they have never left my thoughts either. Neither will the hugs u gave to me often.

“ My mother love the Lord Jesus more then anything else in this world, she was always doing for others and told me often that she felt " if i'm not doing something for others and not myself then i'm not pleasing the Lord". My sister said my mother had given her a knit towel that she wanted to have in her casket, when my sister asked her why mom she said" so when I get to heaven I can wash Jesus's feet". This is the Mother I know and was taught about the love of my Lord. What more could a son ask for? Thank you mom!

“ My Love for you will always be the tie that bound us together spiritually, you always knew when I was hurting or trouble and would contact me even when I was in Florida and ask what was wrong, and you were always right. The love and compassion that you gave to me will never be forgotten. Our days on the lake fishing will be relived every time I go out on the lake. Thank You for waiting up for me late at night until I came home , you knew I was safe so you could go to bed. I will miss you beyond measure and your example of how a Christian is suppose to act and do will be followed just the same as Jesus showed you, you showed me, no one can replace being taught that. In Memory of my mother do something for others, comfort, give food where needed, a kind word or a touch on the back, do this to others as you would want them to do to you. Thank You my Lovely Beautiful Christian Mother Barbara J. Frick, your son Phillip
