“ I always loved running into her in the grocery store. She always started talking about her kids because they were constantly on her mind.

she would give a run down of Gina, as she called her, and the love she had for her family just bubbled out of her mouth. There never was a finer soul that walked this earth then this beloved lady!

“ RIP Aunt Burnette. I remember coming out to your house as a kid a running around the woods. There was a big hill behind the house where we would sled in the winter!
