“ I worked with Carol in my early to mid 20s. She would call me brat. She was tough but fair and had a great sense of humor. She was a kindhearted, amazing lady. I will never forget her and am so glad for the time we spent together.

“ I had the pleasure of working with Carol at McDonald's at the beginning of my career and then again later on. She was a wonderful woman who truly cared about people. When I was young she always treated me with the concern and care of a mother. Later on she kept me in check least I got too big for my britches. I will always remember her fondly.

“ Early in 1962 a young woman found herself pregnant and made the decision to give the baby a chance at a better life. On October 8, 1962, I was born at William Booth Memorial Hospital in Detroit which was run by the Salvation Army. I was adopted by my parents Charles and Ann White and had a wonderful childhood. I definitely hit the adoptee lottery.

Fast forward 40 years. I was reading an article by a Priest that is a Michigan adoptee activist. The article was outlining that the State was keeping adoptees born 1940 to 1980 from getting their history. This really bothered me. The State was not going to keep me from my info. So I decided to get it. I had never seriously considered searching but I spoke with my Father and he gave me his blessing to search. After exhausting all my search options I found the Salvation Army had a program in which they would contact the birth mother and see if they would like to communicate. Carol responded immediately. We met at a restaurant and started a wonderful relationship. Again I had won the Adoptee Lottery.

She was a loving and caring woman that had made her family and home her life and worked to take care of everyone. She and her husband, Smitty, welcomed my family into theirs with open arms. She loved her grand children and enjoyed having them around. When a stroke left her blind and disabled she still did her best to encourage and help her family.

She struggled this last year with health problems and depression but still she did her best to stay positive for her family.

I am very grateful to have had her in my life and glad I could be there to help this last year. She died peacefully last evening with her loved ones there with her.

Thanks Carol for letting me be a part of your life. You are loved and will be deeply missed.

I too, shall miss her terribly. I've known her for 43 years. What a beautiful tribute to your birth Mom. I'm sure she wished she had had more time with you, but so very glad you connected when you did. She as a dear friend. Our daughters grew up together. We lovingly referred to each other as "Ugly part 1, and Ugly part 2". Lol. Prayers go out to you, and to Smitty, who I'm sure will be lost without her.
