“ My condolences to the family. Jim was a friend and inspiration to so many people. I could share so many bike related stories, but my best memories are from the random days we would sit in Mcdonalds for a couple hours and just chat about life in general.

It had been a while since Jim had walked into McDonald's on Holly Road with his wife, so I felt compelled to check the internet, knowing that he was not in the best of health. Dora, you were everything to Jim as one could easily read that all over his face and action when sitting beside you with his diet coke. I was always so happy to see the both of you walk into the restaurant so that I could instigate Jim a bit (but always careful enough not to go too far). A gentle giant with a big heart is what I saw in a man who always had a smile on his face and a terrific sense of humor. Jim could dish out as well appreciate the occasional prank or joke and that is what I liked most about him. Rest In Peace, Jim. I know that you are surfing with the aliens up there;
