“ Had the honor to know J.I. very well and here many stories he had to tell. He would stop in to ask questions about his truck and he would leave and we never did talk about his truck. I got to bowl for many years with Robin and John, his boys, and he would be around to give pointers on occasion. Glad I got to know him and Sharon through the years and as everyone knows he would do anything for anybody. Take Care Summers family.

“ JI Summers was a hard working man. He enjoyed snowmobiling, hunting, and he loved to tell stories. His favorite story was how he fed every kid in the neighborhood. Seems like all the kids would gather at his house as his kids always had the best of everything. Being a raised as southern boy he did not know how to show love except by providing his family with material things.
