“ As Ken's 1st wife, I was very sorry to hear of his passing. We had many good years together and I regret the bitterness of our divorce. I will always remember the good years and let the past stay in the past. RIP

“Dad, I know we didn't always see eye to eye but I hope somewhere in your heart you knew I loved you. I know we have not talked in many years and I will always regret that, but I believe you know that I was trying to work on reconnecting. I am sorry for the part that I played in our estrangement but I don't want to make this about that. I want to talk about all the great things I remember about you. The great stories I have. The ways you loved me and my children. One of my favorite memories of you is when I got in trouble and mom told you to take me in my room and spank me but instead, we went in the room and you told me to cry like you were spanking me. I don't think you had it in your heart to hit me. I remember when I went to Massachusetts and decided I wanted to come back to Michigan. You didn't question or tell me that I had to stay because I chose to go you just paid for my ticket to come back. That's how you were. You were forgiving and loving. You always made sure my kids had a great Christmas and never took credit for it. You made sure I had a place to live and food on the table even when I was angry with you. This is the man I remember and will always remember. You loved unconditionally even when I was a pain. You forgave when you didn't have to. When you were not the wrong one. If anyone remembers things about you this is what I want them to remember, and it is what my boys will know. I love you, Tell Grandma, Grandpa, Aunt Carol and Uncle Ray hi for me. I love you all.

“ My father meant the world to me. He was always there for me guiding me, providing words of encouragement. He did his best to raise me right, and while I didn't always make the best choices, he was always there to help me pick up the pieces and help me get back on my feet again. My work ethic started well before I was an adult, and I attribute much of who I am today to him. He will be sorely missed. I certainly hope I became the son who he could be proud of. I will spend the rest of my life, striving to maintain the values he instilled in me. I will miss our conversations discussing sports, politics, and day to day happenings in our lives. I love you Dad.
