“ I remember my mom telling me that I called you Poppy since I couldn't pronounce Pappy. Ever since then, that's the only name I called you by. And eventually that caught on with the rest of my siblings and that name has only ever been spoken with love and admiration. Love for a woman who was like a mother to all of us, even my own mother. Admiration for a woman who was the most accepting, but no bull taking person I know. Everyone who was ever close to me knew about Poppy and the love she left behind. She made it seem so easy to bring everyone together and I've always been envious of that trait, enough to try and emulate that. I've had to remain stoic throughout all of this for my family, but man does it hurt. You are a bright light in a dark world and I hope you realize that up there Pops. We all love you to the moon and back and we'll miss you forever. I love you Poppy, always and forever.

“ Patty was the flower girl at our Wedding. She is our niece. Earle and I got to enjoy those girls many summers here in Iowa. She was vivacious, caring and full of spunk. She is with the Lord now. We will all miss her terribly but she has a new body in heaven and she will be singing with the angels. Here Uncle Earle and I loved her very much.

“ So many of my memories include you, and it’s hard to choose between them.

You used to tell me there was nothing more special than the love a sister has for their siblings, and I understand what you meant, because I feel it every time I look at my boys. This unconditional bond that you have with them that never goes away. You used to wrap me in your arms and rock me to sleep every night. You’d hum to me, and it was always my safest place. You read One Fish Two Fish Red Fish Blue Fish to me over and over when I was younger, and as I got older I’d give you a different book because the sound of your voice was the most comforting thing in the world to me. I miss you. I miss kisses and inside jokes and laughing until we can’t breathe. I miss waking up early in the morning when it was just the two of us, and we’d talk about your childhood and my future. I miss grabbing your hand and dancing you around the kitchen, both of us spinning until we were dizzy. You never failed to let me know how loved I was. You always said you loved me to the moon and back, and I’ll spend the rest of my life loving you just as much.
