“ Paul and I grew up together as next-door neighbors, are the same age, learned to play baseball together on the same teams, went to school together, graduated together, and considered each other great friends. Paul always was respectful and loved those around him. The entire Swanson family have been great neighbors to the Garno family over the years. Paul will be missed, and we maintain the expectation and hope that he continues to live on in the kingdom of God with Jesus where we may one day be with him again more closely. We will continually keep the Swanson family in our prayers at all times. With love as always, Dan Garno.

“ Paul was my first and oldest friend, we did everything together growing up. He was one of the most "down-to -earth" people I have ever known. He feared and worried over very little. His outlook on life was always positive, and he was always willing to help anyone who asked.

He was a hard worker, loyal friend, and was very proud of his Naval service.

Paul will be greatly missed by his family and friends, but he would not wish that we feel sorry for him, but rather to rejoice in the memories of his life and accomplishments.

Paul, my friend, my brother in spirit, I will miss you, but know that we will see each other again.

Troy, Nathan and Aaron, my other brothers my heart goes out to each of you, and you will be in our families hearts and prayers. I love each and every one of you, and pray that you will help to keep the memory of Paul's spirit alive.
