“ My husband larry snd Russ worked together at GM In their early days of employment and for many years thereafter. Larry snd I snd Russ snd Joyce became friends. I first met them fifty three years ago when they invited us to their home for dinner. I was carrying a baby and as soon as I got out of the car, Russ Took the baby from me snd began to love on her as if she were someone special to him. When we walked into the house, I couldn't believe it!! Joyce was getting ready to take baked goods to, I believe it was Eastern Market. The house was FILLED and I mean FILLED with baked goods that would make a professional baker envious. During the race riots in 1967 they worked the midnight shift. They had to obtain permits from the police dept to be on the roads that time of night When they arrived safely at work, Larry would call me snd I would call joyce. Next night Russ would call joyce and she would call me. We always talked for 15 to 40 minutes. The writing in the obituary that said they never met a stranger is very true

Condolences to all the family

“ A wonderful Man, that Mr. Russell Sill. Always smiling and so happy to see me everytime I saw him. I remember he was always there supporting our girls Ball games. Great memories of him selling me the Maiden Air Ferns at the Oakland County Farmer's Market, always meetings my needs for my customers. I shall miss Mr. Sill. Rest now. Peace.
