“ Hello - I had lost track of Tom in recent years and was saddened to hear of his passing. I first met Tom at the start of my engineering career about 40 years ago when he was with Coon DeVisser. He was always my first call on compressor projects long after CDV and I enjoyed speaking with him on those too infrequent occasions. His wealth of knowledge was only surpassed by his friendly disposition. I recently retired myself and came across a golf ball with a CDV logo that Tom had given to me many years ago. It prompted me to make a call to him at the last place I knew he worked, and it was how I found out he had died.

While I'm late with my condolences, I did want to share with you how much I enjoyed our interactions and respected Tom as a professional and I know I'm not alone in the engineering community to feel that way.

“ I remember way back when the boys were making their First Communion and parents were asked (at a parent meeting) what quality would you want your child(ren) to have throughout their life. Tom said "A sense of humor." When I saw the family at the grave site burst out laughing about something through their tears, I thought about how Tom instilled the sense of humor successfully. Rest in peace Tom a wise and good man!
